

LASAGNA BOWL CHAMPIONSHIP HISTORY

YEAR	WINNER 1 - LASAGNA 1	WINNER 2 - LASAGNA 2	NOTES
2007	Robert Ray - Chicken Green Curry	Scarletto - Traditional The One True Champ of the Inaugural Lasagna Bowl!!!!!!!!!!
2008	N/A	N/A
2009	N/A	N/A
2010	Geoff Gorski - En Fuego	Jenn Miller - Seafood Spinach	Last Year On Super Bowl Sunday
2011	Meg Demolina - Mambo #5	Jane Gorski - Caramel Apple	Moved To Super Bowl SATURDAY
2012	Matt Saggese - Locals Only	Chrissy Starnes - Mexican Ole
2013	Gorski	Katy Durkin	Becksteins With The 3rd MC Golden Spatula
2014	Geoff Gorski - Jerk Shrimp	Katy Durkin - Chocolate Dessert	Herrick - Lifetime Achievement Spatula For Annual Fried Chicken
2015	Ryan Beckstein - Green Chile	Jane Gorski - Layered Pasta Salad	Denise Fowler - With The Rare 3rd Spatula For Dessert Cookies
2016	Lacey Somech - Buffalo Chicken	Katy Durkin - Chocolate Peanut Butter
2017	Phil Stemp - Phillylicious	Michael Conti - Lasagna Sticks	10th Annual (see text from FB post below)
2018	Cheryl Turk - Pierogie	Michael Conti - Breakfast	MC won his first two contests which was unheard of. Then sadly we lost MC, thus renaming the Golden Spatula after him moving forward
2019	Katy Durkin - Ketosagna	Annetta Saggese - Smores	Inaugural year of the MC Golden Spatula (see logo on spatulas). Also, first year kids can vote and have it count as first kid entry
2020	Phil Stemp - Wonton	Kelli Flowers - Never Sausage

STATS: Katy Durkin (4), Geoff Gorski (3), Jane Gorski (2), Phil Stemp (2), Michael Conti (2), Ryan Beckstein (TBD)

2017 FB Post

Today marks the 10th annual Saggese Lasagna Bowl. Originally named the Saggese SUPER Lasagna Bowl as it took place on Super Bowl Sunday. Once this grand event became more popular than the Super Bowl itself, we moved to Saturday.

Those first few years were full of far too much fun, far too many drinks and far too full bellies to really remember all the details. When Lasagna-Gate struck in 2010 we lost all our hard drives and records so we are still piecing back together who actually won those years.

Back then we didn't have any children to worry about and our biggest concern was what was for lunch on Monday. And when we realized lasagnas came in all shapes and sizes we created this contest.

Over the years the categories have changed from Traditional to Dinner to Dessert to Creative and Honorable Mention. And every year the gluttony has provided for more glory. We have had sunny days and rainy days cold days and warm ones but with the backyard and happy confines of the inside we have always had the best of times.

Pretty sure Robert won the very first one, with the help of Mellow Mushrooms ingredients. The Gorski family are by far the supreme winners of the most Golden Spatulas. Katy Durkin redefined lasagnas along with Ryan Beckstein as they dove into the creative and dessert realm. We have had one timers come and win, never to be seen again. And everyone loves that the Herricks continue to enter fried chicken. The Saggese home is proud to hang one golden spatula and this year we look forward to another.

It's with great thanks to all our supporters that this tradition has continued for 10 years. We truly look forward to the comrade, the trash talk and being able to see friends that maybe we don't get to see as often anymore. So let the layering begin and here's to another 10 years!

2018 FB Post

As if a house full of tremendous friends wasn't enough, Lasagna Bowl 11 overflowed our kitchen with some of the tastiest creations to date. The variety was as diverse as the vote tallies but in the end, it was a Title Defender and a Long Time First Time who took home the coveted Golden Spatulas. Congrats to Michael Conti and Cheryl Turk respectively and endless thanks to all who participated and partied it up! Post pics if you've got em as mine are limited if not blurry.

2020 FB Post

Lasagna Bowl XII started off a bit stressful as the weather wasn't sure if it wanted to cooperate and the Evite # was closing in on 70 people.

But as all Saggese events go, the worries disappeared as our amazing family of friends arrived.

With them came 20 diverse and scrumptious lasagnas, all expecting to win. The set up accommodated all, and once the tasting began to flurry of excitement rose. With the help of a last-minute helper our tallying of the votes was successful, albeit fuzzy.

Walking out back to make the announcement I was overwhelmed with the number of faces eagerly waiting to hear who will take home the MCs. We honored Michael Conti and awarded two Golden spatulas to Phil Stemp with his Wonton lasagna and Kelli Flowers with her Never Sausage lasagna. For Phil it was his third and for Kelli it was her first, yet another example of the beauty of lasagna bowl.

The party lasted until midnight as we sat around the fire solving the worlds problems and coming up with next year's lasagna recipes. Just how we scripted it.

Thanks to all who participated, helped, partied, ate too much, and found a new appreciation for an old Italian meal.